1a. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Applicant should provide a status of copending application 09/340,139 in the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Art Unit: 2666

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 15-16 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,618,372. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because of the following:

For claims 15-16, the claim 1 of the patent number 6,618,372 disclose a system comprising a plurality of communication apparatuses coupled to a plurality of communication circuits, the communication system receives a packet from a communication circuit of an originating communication apparatus and transfers the packet to a communication circuit of a destination communication apparatus, each communication apparatus comprising: a plurality of packet input/output interfaces; a memory which stores new connection identifiers corresponding to destinations of received packets; a converter which converts connection identifiers included in headers of received packets to the new connection identifiers stored in the memory; and a switch which transfers a received packet to one of the plurality of packet input/output interfaces based on the new connection identifiers, wherein a control signal is communicated via a first connection previously set between the originating communication apparatus and the destination communication apparatus to determine a second connection through which the received packet is to be transferred, and when the second connection is determined, a new connection identifier corresponding to the second connection is stored in the memory of each of the plurality of communication apparatuses in which the second connection is to be setup, and wherein when the received packet has been received by a packet input/output interface of the originating communication apparatus, the connection identifier of the received packet is converted to the new connection identifier stored in the memory and the received packet is output from a packet input/output interface of the destination communication apparatus via the plurality of communication apparatuses in which the second connection is setup.

For claims 15-16, Applicant's claims 15-16 merely broaden the scope of the patent number 6,618,372 claim 1 eliminating the terms "corresponding to destinations of received packets " " plurality of packet input/output interfaces "a packet input/output interface of the originating communication apparatus " from claim 1 of the patent. It has been held that the omission of an element and its function is an obvious expedient if the remaining elements perform the same function as before. In re karlson, 136 USPQ 184 (CCPA). Also note Ex Parte Raine, 168 USPQ 375 (bd. App. 1969); omission of a reference element whose function is not need would be obvious to one skilled in the art.

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 15-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

3. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to DANG T. TON whose telephone number is 571-272-3171. The examiner can normally be reached on MON-WED, 5:30 AM-6:00 PM and Thur 5:30-9:30 A.M.
